GROWING CONDITIONS: A fairly mild winter left Hudson Valley and Lake Champlain apples in early pink stage by the end of April with general development and bloom about a week ahead of normal. The week of May 3rd frost caused some damage along with browning of blossoms and trees were beginning to bloom. By May 10th apple trees were in full bloom and some growers reported up to 50 percent petal fall. Pollination was variable due to the frost damage. Hail was reported the week of June 1st but damage was variable. On June 3rd frost and freezing temperatures were reported causing moderate damage. Ample moisture throughout June allowed for good sizing and apple set was variable depending on the variety. Heavy wind the week of July 5th caused some apples to drop. Sizing continued to be good in July and by July 26th early varieties were ready for harvest. Some scab problems were reported.

By September 22nd the harvest of few Red Delicious, Spartans, and Empires was underway with McIntosh generally completed. The week of October 6th a few Golden Delicious had started and by October 12th growers were cleaning up Red Delicious and working the late varieties; Romes, few Stayman, and Idareds. By the 20th most growers were cleaning up remaining fruit and the harvest was generally completed. ## WESTERN AND CENTRAL NEW YORK APPLES

1986 CROP

According to the New York Statistical Reporting Service, Western New York produced 630 million pounds of apples in 1986, approximately 19% less than the 1985 crop.

GROWING CONDITIONS AND HARVEST

A fairly mild winter left no indication of winter injury on New York fruit trees. However, by late April, cold temperatures caused limited damage following general development and bloom a week ahead of normal. By mid May, Western New York growers were reporting damage on Mutsu, Cortland, Red Delicious and Empires. At this time, nearly all apples were in the full bloom to petal fall stage. Ample moisture from heavy summer rains allowed for good sizing of fruit, although the high winds with heavy rain caused some fruit drop. By the first week in September, harvest of early varieties was nearly complete, with McIntosh picking getting underway. Harvest became more active by the third week in September, with yields down but overall size above normal. Late season varieties were being actively harvested by mid October, with the harvest generally finished by early November.

MARKETING

Primary packs for fresh market were cartons containing 12-3 lb film bags, and cell or tray pack cartons. The first FOB price report of the season was released on September 22, with 12-3 lb bags of McIntosh quoted at 10.50-11.00. Cortlands were initially quoted at 10.00-11.00, with Red Delicious at 10.50-11.00. Prices remained in a fairly narrow range throughout the marketing season, increasing somewhat for late season Controlled Atmosphere varieties.

SHIPMENTS

Truck shipments for the 1986-87 season, through April 1987, totaled 888 trucklots (40,000 lbs), compared to 913 trucklots for the 1985-86 season, and 825 trucklots for the 1984-85 season.
